

A fluffy white lamb with glowing blue eyes stands on a grassy field. The lamb is the central focus, looking directly at the camera. Its wool is thick and white, and its eyes are a striking, unnatural blue. The background is a lush green lawn with scattered brown leaves, suggesting an outdoor setting. The lighting is soft, highlighting the texture of the lamb's wool.

“My sheep listen to my voice; I know them, and they follow me. I give them eternal life, and they will never perish; no one can snatch them out of my hand. My Father, who has given them to me is greater than all, no one can snatch them out of my Father’s hand. I and the Father are one.”

(John 10:27-30)
